A Conglomeratation Of Words

Little donation this week is about a very familiar topic, E, and while it may be a mixture of humor and serious facts as I hope you can easily sort out the seeds from the weeds, a definition of love depends a lot on who is giving the opinion, starry-eyed teenager love could be anything from a tickling sensation around the heart they can't scratch to an abyss on the hard. Emotion can be such a fragile thing as to almost wreck body with pain, sorrow and sometimes shame and still having to do with LOVE.

WE is a holy, spiritual emotion and should never be connected with this thing called LOVE which is emphasized in the sentimental A of the ordinary popular song.

Youngsters are sadly deceived by this carnal emotion they may believe to be love because of its intensity, but they don't live very long before they learn that it is possible to have emotion they thought was love with the change of the moon it makes them especially vulnerable in a car parked off the highway on a moonlight night and the divorce courts prove I say is true.

Youngsters, don't mistake fleshly passions for pure and holy LOVE that can only come from God as it is so easy to be deceived, try to show you what your chances are of finding LOVE apart from the advice of God's word.

We are told that the world's human population is about 3 1/2 billion which is fairly equally divided between the male and female I cannot conceive that God would make things so unfair that a person to be in love they must first find the other one person in whole world with whom they can fall in love -- Rats! I say.

As far as this thing the ordinary person calls love, people can love about as often as they become attracted by the opposite but birds, animals and insects have mating instincts, but only no sensible person wants to elevate those instincts to that and holy estate called love.

Youngsters, LOVE is of God for the Bible plainly tells that IS LOVE and anyone who lowers love to anything less will jeopardize their lives for the worse.

As a parting bit of advice to which the great majority will little attention, let me say this as God's Almighty truth that only way a couple can have God's guarantee of a happy wedded life is to answer the question in His word "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" Plus the other bit of advice not to be unequally yoked together with unbelievers.

Personally, will not worry much about couples who will take as passages of scripture as their rule of life.

Here, so much for that; thus endeth my little sermonette, be glad to hear from our readers as to whether or not I should let the public with any more.

The secret of a good story or a sermon is to have a good beginning and a good ending and not too much in between.

Friend of ours from Lincoln called at our home recently and he talk the lady told me a pretty good story her minister told himself. He is a Methodist brother lately taking over the church. He is completely blind and has only been there a few weeks, but in that short time has brought the congregation up from a small number to about 180.

He told about a minister who was the main attraction at his own reception, and he noticed a man who looked like something left over when the good Lord made an ape. As he was passing the minister in the line he said; "We don't like you' and kept on going and much to the minister's surprise he saw the man back in the line again and as he passed the second time he said; "You can't preach anyway." The minister became pretty perturbed, but didn't say anything, but when he noticed the odd ball coming up the third time he was pretty well deflated as the fellow said, "We didn't want you anyway." The good old deacon who was assisting in the reception could hear the little by-play and noticing the embarrassment of the pastor, tried to ease his feelings and said, "Pastor, I wouldn't feel badly about what this man said, you see he is the town idiot and he just repeats whatever he hears."

As a kind of a thought for the day - Think long and seriously about things that can be decided but once.

Clean-Up Follow-Up

Life Expectancy Continues Up

The life expectancy of a man today is 70.3 years against 47.3 years in 1900. Improved medical techniques and the use of "miracle" drugs are largely responsible for this increased longevity.

One of the ironies of the drug-price controversy is the charge that the cost of medication is beyond the reach of oldsters who, a short half-century ago, would not have lived to enjoy their sunset years.

Yet statistics show that drug prices more often decline-seldom go up. Few blame those responsible for the cost of food, clothing, and shelter. The only villains in this drama are drugs and the men who manufacture them.

PANthers PREPARE
I stated last week on my preview of the Panthers
, Richardson and Steve looked like the only that can be positive (or positive) of getting a sit berth on the team. Now a look at some of the candidates: Two top ch for the backcourt are Goodwin and Kevin O'Con-Goodwin played first five last year, but with all the players pushing for start-positions, Goodwin will have to earn it this year.
more showed us last year he has the hustle and that shoot, so I think we can tibly count on him this year in the starting lineup --- part of the time. Of of course, Coach Hotham has the alternative to move Webb into the backcourt and putting Merle Davis, another good shooting lefrhander, into the lineup.

Two other fine backcourt men, up from last years J. V.'s, are Mike Mulherin & Paul Grindle.

Both did well last year for the Junior Panthers & should make the scramble for first five even more interesting to watch.
David Fullen and Simon Brown, who played both varsity and Junior Varsity last year could both prove valuable to Coach Hotham's plans. Milo has the potential, but the big question is, can Coach Hotham develop it --- it'll be a tough job.

NEXT WEEK: The Brown-
ville Jct. Railroaders.

BAILEY BRIEFINGS ...
Milo's cross country team had an intra-squad run last Thursday and Cedric Rhoda, Bill Mulherin, and Peter Ellis were the first three to finish.
Rhoda unofficially clock 13:26 for the two and one half mile sprint ---- that is something for the high school senior to be proud of --- a tip of the hat is due Charles Hotham for the long hours he put in coaching baseball this past summer --- Tom Treash, the Yankee's converted left fielder, is a must for the American League "Rookie of the Year" award ----- Boston Red Sox fans are saying that Johnny Pesky (new Hub manager) is just what the doctor ordered ------- if that is the case, maybe, just maybe,
"Wait till next year," will finally come ----- New York's Tresh looked like the veteran ballplayer in the World Series and Mantle looked like the rookie. Looks like the Milo Panthers will have to rely on speed this year because height is missing ---- the team just doesn't have the depth that it had last year ---- just thought of a good name for the high school's cross country team, the Milo Panthers -- get it? If anyone is planning to go to Dover's new bowling lanes, you'd better get there about 6 o'clock if you want to be sure of bowling before eight.

Stranger Passing Through

You say you're just a stranger passing through Who paused here for a moment from the strife
Of harried living, and the cry and hue;
The earthly struggles of this modern life?

For in your haste somewhere along the way You've overlooked the Gift of God to man Nature, beautiful, colorful and gay Is everywhere, according to His Plan.

See rows of maples with their red and gold And piles of swirling leaves upon the ground Scampering squirrels, Venturesome and bold And red-cheeked children laughing all around.

That whisper of the wind in trees you hear A melancholy prayer to one imports Dame Nature's Grand Finale of the year; Instills tranquility within our hearts.

Perchance one day you'll pass this way again
To share with us the joys of earth and sky
And sharing find a Peace that will remain Forever while the world goes rushing by.

The following poem, by Elizabeth A. Roberts, was received very near press time last week. We enjoyed it so much that we had to reduce it in the camera to very small print. Here it is again, life-size.

ODE TO FALL'S BEAUTY

The beauty of the leaves in fall
For some they'll hear the Master's call, Others there will chance to be,
A far greater, earthy destiny.
The farmers in the fields will clear, Harvest time is finally here.
God has waved his mighty paint brush, and we've seen
The leaves of golden yellow and the red and green.
This is a time to give Him thanks, While mother nature continues her imprints pranks, Oh! how lucky we mortals really are,
For we've seen beauty that winter cannot mar.

The following poem by Holman Day of Monterey, Califo, was written for the Milo Chamber of Commerce and was published in the booklet commemorating the 125th Anniversary of the Town of Milo, the 125th Anniversary of the Piscataquis L
No. 44 A.F. & A.M., and the 50th Anniversary of the Ame-Thread Co. in 1948. The original copy is in the State Libra-Augusta.

Mr. H. Allen Monroe kindly lent us his copy of the booklet which we copied the poem

COME TO PISCATAQUIS

Is your taste for the tang of the Open, have you zest in Out-of-doors,
Where the trees make roofs for the sheltered glades, where Duff spreads woodland floors?
Do you seek the lure of the winding trails, the vistas far ahead,
And a lean-tot at night near stream or lake, your cozy spruce-bough bed?
Do you yearn for a forest cabin at the rim of a pebbled sh Where the lake's waves whisper a lullaby, and forgot in city's roar?
Is your choice the lift of the noble domes of mountains far crowned,
Where silence makes serenity and perfect peace is for Do you seek the spell of the placid lakes and the purtell-tale reels
That promise bounty for those who bless the job of filled creels?
I give you answer and earnest pledge that all this grace bliss
Lies open to those who bend their ways to fair Piscataq
I know the land from Chairback Lakes where flashing w pleams
In its race to fill moss-lined pools of Pleasant Riv streams,
Schoolie and Beeme and all the ponds, the linking tro know
And all the glory of purple hills in morn and evening Year after year I came to them in the glorious days of And across the land, from the far, far West, I'll jour their ways.
